WELCOME ADDRESS

Dear Members and Guests,

As the current President of the European Association for the Study of Diabetes, I have the honour and pleasure to welcome you to the 59th EASD Annual Meeting.

The meeting will be another great opportunity to connect the global diabetes community, share ground-breaking diabetes science and research, and to provide educational opportunities.

You can look forward to an exceptional scientific programme that not only looks to the future, but also deals extensively with current treatments, technologies and care as well as outstanding scientific research. Across 8 parallel tracks, you are invited to attend stimulating symposia, thought-provoking debates, award lectures, a dedicated e-Learning track as well as numerous oral and short oral presentations.

You are invited to actively join the discussions during the short oral presentations, take advantage of the opportunity to debate many new research findings with colleagues coming from all over the world, promote interdisciplinary exchange and establish new research collaborations – we know that the quality of the meeting is to a large extend determined by you – the people who are with us.

Hamburg, host city of the 59th EASD Annual Meeting, is also known as Germany's gateway to the world and it will offer ample opportunities to socialise and network with peers from all over the world. Needless to say, this city offers great options outside of the scientific programme hours. History, architecture, culture, gastronomy and entertainment provide a variety of choices on how to spend your evenings.

On behalf of the EASD Board and the entire EASD team, I invite you to join us in Hamburg and – to those who might not be able to travel – I invite you to join us virtually!

We look forward to welcoming all of you! Let's get together and continue fighting diabetes!

Chantal Mathieu
President EASD/EFSD

WELCOME ADDRESS

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

On behalf of the 2023 Scientific Programme Committee, I have the pleasure of welcoming you to the 59th EASD Annual Meeting in Hamburg, Germany.

As this is my first year serving as the EASD Honorary Secretary I am exceptionally excited about the scientific programme we have composed for this years' meeting and I hope that everyone will find interesting topics which help us advance the field of diabetes research and care.

The Scientific Programme Committee together with the Abstract Review Committee reviewed 1430 submitted abstracts and selected 1007 for presentation. The outstanding programme will comprise of stimulating symposia and debates, numerous oral and short oral presentations as well as award lectures, honouring the achievements of distinguished scientists and promising talents in diabetes research.

Regardless of whether you are a clinician, basic scientist, nurse, healthcare professional, or young academic, the scientific programme of the EASD Annual Meeting 2023 will deliver an abundance of new knowledge covering the latest innovations and developments in the treatment of type 1 and type 2 diabetes and their associated complications.

Obviously, attending the EASD Annual Meeting 2023 is more than just following the scientific programme – it is also the perfect place to interact and communicate with colleagues from all over the world and offers a unique opportunity for exchange, dialogue and debate.

We invite you to join us and look forward welcoming you in Hamburg from 2 – 6 October 2023.

Tina Vilsbøll
Honorary Secretary EASD

55th Claude Bernard Lecture

Chair: Chantal Mathieu, Belgium

Speaker: Åke Lernmark, Sweden
Dissecting etiologies of autoimmune type 1 diabetes

Åke Lernmark is Senior Professor in Experimental Diabetes

Research at Lund University Clinical Research Centre in Malmö, Sweden. His major research interest is the genetic and environmental etiology of autoimmune type 1 diabetes. He is principal investigator for Sweden in The Environmental Determinants of Diabetes in the Young (TEDDY) study.

He was trained at the University of Umeå and obtained his Doctor of Medicine (PhD) degree in 1971 on studies of insulin release from isolated mouse pancreatic islets and developed a method for single islet cells. A nine-year docent ship from the Swedish Government made it possible to join Donald F. Steiner's laboratory, first as Post Doc and then as an Assistant Professor at the University of Chicago. He later continued his research at the Hagedorn Research Laboratory in Gentofte, Denmark where he was the Director of Research (1979-1987). The first islet autoantigen was identified and molecular genetics studies allowed the discovery of HLA-DQ.

As Honorary Secretary of EASD he was responsible for the scientific programme at the Annual Meetings 1984-1988.

Åke Lernmark's contributions have been honored with the Minkowski Award (1984), Kellion Medal (1985), David Rumbough Award (1985), Hamdan Award for Medical Science Excellence (2002), 18th Annual J. Allan Taylor International Prize (2002), Johnny Ludvigsson Prize (2009), Oscar Medin Prize (2019), George Eisenbarth Award (2020) and Kund Lundbæk Award (2021).

The research output is 657 peer-reviewed publications, 57 chapters in text books, and 26 peer-reviewed reviews. His H-index is 87, there are 33,309 citations and 907 publications in Web of Science. Åke Lernmark has mentored 33 graduate students and 29 postdoctoral fellows.

EASD CLAUDE BERNARD MEDAL AND LECTURE

The Claude Bernard Medal and Lectureship is the EASD's highest award in recognition of contributions to the advancement of knowledge in the field of diabetes and related metabolic diseases.

The aim of the Lectureship is to honour an individual's innovative leadership and lifetime achievements in diabetes research.

The Claude Bernard Prize is generously supported by Sanofi.

Stephan Herzig is Research Director at Helmholtz Center Munich (HMGU), Scientific Director of the Helmholtz Diabetes Center, and Director of the Institute for Diabetes and Cancer. He holds a full professorship for molecular metabolic control at the medical faculty of the Technical University Munich and is honorary professor at the University of Heidelberg.

After obtaining his PhD from the University of Göttingen in 1999, he moved to the U.S. for a postdoctoral training at the Salk Institute for Biological Studies in La Jolla, California. In 2003, he relocated to Germany to establish an independent junior group at the German Cancer Research Center, where he was promoted to department head in 2010. In 2012, he became full professor at the University of Heidelberg and eventually accepted an offer from the Helmholtz Center Munich in 2015.

The Herzig lab aims at identifying novel therapeutic targets for treating metabolic dysfunction in obesity and diabetes long-term complications.

To date, he has published more than 170 peer-reviewed papers including numerous publications in Nature, Nature Medicine, Science, and Cell Metabolism, and holds several patents. A number of prestigious awards have been granted to Stephan Herzig, exemplified by an Emmy-Noether Award (German Research Association, DFG), a Marie-Curie Excellence Award (European Commission) and most recently the Werner-Creutzfeldt Award (German Diabetes Association DDG).

Herzig is serving the scientific community by a number of coordinating functions in national and international consortia, and he is Editor-in-Chief of Molecular Metabolism.

EASD CAMILLO GOLGI PRIZE

The EASD Camillo Golgi Prize is awarded for outstanding contributions in the field of the histopathology, pathogenesis, prevention and treatment of the complications of diabetes, which have been carried out in Europe by a member of EASD normally resident in Europe.

Publications in internationally recognized scientific journals over the last 5 years should demonstrate continuing activity, originality and excellence in the field.

The Camillo Golgi Prize is generously supported by Novo Nordisk.

17th Albert Renold Lecture

Chair: Francesco Giorgino, Italy

Speaker: Yuval Dor, Israel

Disrupted RNA editing as a path to type 1 diabetes

Yuval Dor, PhD, is a Professor of biology at the Hebrew University-Hadassah Medical School. He earned his PhD in vascular biology at the Hebrew University in 2001 with Prof. Eli Keshet, and trained as a post-doc at Harvard University with Doug Melton until 2004.

His lab studies postnatal tissue dynamics: the molecular mechanisms by which cells regenerate and die. Much of his work focuses on pancreatic beta-cells in the context of type 1 and type 2 diabetes, as well as on pancreatic cancer. He is also using DNA methylation-based liquid biopsies to assess pathologies.

Since 2017 he is the chair of biology and medicine at the Israel Science Foundation.

EASD ALBERT RENOLD PRIZE

Prize for an EASD member's outstanding achievements in research on the islets of Langerhans.

The Albert Renold Prize honours the memory of Albert Renold, the distinguished diabetologist, researcher and also one of the founding members of EASD

The Albert Renold Prize is generously supported by Lilly.

Chair: Chantal Mathieu, Belgium

Speaker: Roman Hovorka, UK

Automated insulin delivery – diabetes tech at its best

Roman Hovorka, PhD, FMedSci, is Professor of Metabolic Technology Research at the Institute of Metabolic Science and Department of Paediatrics at University of Cambridge, UK.

He made seminal contributions to diabetes technology including the “Artificial Pancreas”, a device that delivers insulin in glucose responsive fashion.

He has been Chief Investigator on several trials evaluating the Artificial Pancreas in populations such as young children and newly diagnosed type 1 diabetes.

EASD-Novo Nordisk Foundation Diabetes Prize for Excellence

The EASD-Novo Nordisk Foundation Diabetes Prize for Excellence awards an internationally recognised researcher who has contributed significantly to advances in the understanding, prevention or treatment of diabetes or its complications.

The awardee's research may focus on prevention, treatment and/or basic research in physiological biochemistry.

The EASD-Novo Nordisk Foundation Diabetes Prize for Excellence is generously supported by the Novo Nordisk Foundation.

Dr. Timo Müller studied Animal Physiology at the Philipps-University Marburg, Germany. In 2009, he received his PhD at the Department of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry and Psychotherapy, University of Duisburg-Essen, Germany.

He then moved on to work as a postdoctoral fellow at the Metabolic Disease Institute, University of Cincinnati, USA. In 2011, Timo Müller returned to Germany, where he ever since leads the Division of Molecular Pharmacology at the Institute for Diabetes and Obesity (IDO), Helmholtz Munich. Since 2018 Timo Müller is the acting director of the IDO.

In 2019, he received the Venia legendi for experimental pharmacology from the Medical Faculty at the University of Tübingen, Germany. Dr. Müllers research is focused on the development and evaluation of novel unimolecular pharmacotherapies to treat the metabolic syndrome, and in particular obesity and diabetes.

He published >150 manuscripts, including articles in Cell, Cell Metabolism, Nature Medicine, Nature Metabolism, and Nature Communications. As postdoctoral fellow, he discovered that adipose-specific loss of p62 leads to extreme obesity in mice (Müller et al., J Clin Invest 2013) and identified GPR83 as a regulator of energy metabolism (Müller et al., Nat Commun 2013). He established the concept of glucagon-mediated hepatic delivery of T3 to mediate delivery of oestrogen to restore beta-cell mass in diabetic mice (Sachs et al. Nat Metab 2020), while GLP-1-mediated delivery of Tesaglitazar improves systemic glucose metabolism (Quarta et al., Nat Metab 2021). He further refuted the concept that alternatively activated macrophages regulate adaptive thermogenesis (Fischer et al., Nat Med 2017), identified the signal mechanism of how p62 regulates energy metabolism (Fischer et al., Nat Commun 2020) and identified the CNS GIP receptor as a key regulator of body weight (Zhang et al., Cell Metab 2021). He also published two of the most cited manuscripts of Molecular Metabolism (Müller et al., Mol Metab 2015 and Müller et al., Mol Metab 2019) and demonstrated the importance of the GIP receptor for the insulinotropic action of Tirzepatide (El et al., Nat Metab 2023).

EASD MINKOWSKI PRIZE

EASD-Lilly Centennial Anniversary Prize Lecture

Chair: Francesco Giorgino, Italy

Speaker: Gerald Shulman, USA:

The role of ectopic lipid in insulin resistance and cardiometabolic disease

Dr. Gerald Shulman is the George R. Cowgill Professor of Physiological Chemistry, Professor of Internal Medicine and Cellular & Molecular Physiology at Yale University. He is also Co-Director of the Yale Diabetes Research Center and an Investigator of the Howard Hughes Medical Institute for 21 years.

Dr. Shulman has pioneered the use of magnetic resonance spectroscopy combined with stable isotopes and mass spectrometry to non-invasively examine intracellular glucose and fat metabolism in humans that have led to several paradigm shifts in our understanding of type 2 diabetes, including the molecular mechanisms by which ectopic lipids promote liver and muscle insulin resistance, as well as developing new drugs for the treatment of type 2 diabetes, nonalcoholic fatty liver disease and nonalcoholic steatohepatitis.

Dr. Shulman is the recipient of the Stanley J. Korsmeyer Award from the American Society for Clinical Investigation, the Outstanding Clinical Investigator Award from the Endocrine Society, the Solomon Berson Award from the American Physiological Society and the Banting Medal for Lifetime Scientific Achievement from the American Diabetes Association.

Dr. Shulman is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Inaugural Fellow of the American Physiological Society, Mastership in the American College of Physicians, Mastership in the American College of Endocrinologists, Fellowship in the Royal College of Physicians (Lon) and he has been elected to the American Society for Clinical Investigation, the Association of American Physicians, the National Academy of Medicine, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the National Academy of Sciences.
